On 9 June 2024, the European People's Party led by Ursula von der Leyen won the most seats in the European Parliament. The pro-EU centrist, liberal and environmentalist parties suffered losses, while anti-EU right-wing populist parties made gains. The right-wing European Conservatives and Reformists group overtook the centrist Renew Europe group to win the fourth most seats, while the newest group, Patriots for Europe, gained the third most seats. In addition, several new or Non-Inscrits parties gained seats in the Parliament.

A sharp right turn: A forecast for the 2024 European Parliament elections

Kevin Cunningham Simon Hix with Susi Dennison ✕ Imogen Learmonth

Policy Brief · 23 January 2024

- The 2024 European Parliament elections will see a major shift to the right in many countries, with populist radical right parties gaining votes and seats across the EU, and centre-left and green parties losing votes and seats.
- Anti-European populists are likely to top the polls in nine member states (Austria, Belgium, the Czech Republic, France, Hungary, Italy, the Netherlands, Poland, and Slovakia) and come second or third in a further nine countries (Bulgaria, Estonia, Finland, Germany, Latvia, Portugal, Romania, Spain, and Sweden).
- According to our forecast, almost half the seats will be held by MEPs outside the “super grand coalition” of the three centrist groups.
- Inside the European Parliament, a populist right coalition of Christian democrats, conservatives, and radical right MEPs could emerge with a majority for the first time.
- This ‘sharp right turn’ is likely to have significant consequences for European-level policies, which will affect the foreign policy choices that the EU can make, particularly on environmental issues, where the new majority is likely to oppose ambitious EU action to tackle climate change.

Voters in the 27 countries of the European Union delivered a clear shift to the right in the European Parliament election, with gains for the centre-right and nationalists and a crushing defeat for French President Emmanuel Macron's party..

Projected share of seats

Previous share of seats

The latest seat projection by the European Parliament showed the centre-right European People's Party reinforcing its status as the biggest group of lawmakers and hard-right groups also adding seats. By contrast, the Greens, lost notably in Germany, and the liberal Renew Europe also shrunk as Marine Le Pen's Rassemblement National trounced Macron's Renaissance party, prompting him to call a snap parliamentary election. It was also a bad result for German Chancellor Olaf Scholz's social democrats.

On 9 June 2024, shortly after 21:00 CEST, Macron dissolved the National Assembly and called snap elections in a national address following projections which indicated that the L'Europe Ensemble electoral list would be significantly eclipsed by the RN in the European Parliament elections in France. In his address, he called the rise of nationalism by agitators a threat to France, Europe, and France's place in the world. He also warned that the far-right would bring about the "impoverishment of the French people and the downfall of our country." The dates of the first and second rounds of elections were set for 30 June and 7 July, respectively.<sup>[11]</sup>

France's far-right National Rally (RN) party has won a resounding victory in the first round of the country's snap parliamentary elections.

Marine Le Pen's RN and allies took about 33 percent of the vote, according to official results released by the Ministry of Interior. The left-wing New Popular Front (NFP) coalition finished next with about 28 percent, and President Emmanuel Macron's centrist Ensemble alliance could manage about 20 percent votes.

The result puts RN in a position where it may start hoping about forming a government. However, forces across the rest of the political spectrum have suggested that they will cooperate to block the far-right party in the second round vote on July 7.

French protesters clashed with riot police in Paris on July 7 after France's parliamentary election results were announced. Supporters from the far right and the hard left clashed in the French city of Lyon on July 7 night. An eyewitness video captured the beginning of the clash, showing protesters setting off fireworks. Medave Prod, who filmed the video, said far-right protesters were pushed back by the hard-left group. The second round of elections threw up a hung parliament, with a leftist alliance unexpectedly taking the top spot ahead of the far-right. (Reuters)

1683–1699: Great Turkish War – Loss of Hungary and the Morea [edit]

Main article: Great Turkish War

The Great Turkish War started in 1683, with a grand invasion force of 140,000 men<sup>[29]</sup> marching on Vienna, supported by Protestant Hungarian noblemen rebelling against Habsburg rule. To stop the invasion, another Holy League was formed, composed of Austria and Poland (notably in the Battle of Vienna), Venetians and the Russian Empire, Vienna had been besieged by the Ottoman Empire for two months. The battle marked the first time the Polish–Lithuanian Commonwealth and the Holy Roman Empire had cooperated militarily against the Ottomans, and it is often seen as a turning point in history, after which "the Ottoman Turks ceased to be a menace to the Christian world".<sup>[30]</sup> [c] In the ensuing war that lasted until 1699, the Ottomans lost almost all of Hungary to the Holy Roman Emperor Leopold I.<sup>[30]</sup>

After winning the Battle of Vienna, the Holy League gained the upper hand and reconquered Hungary (Buda and Pest were retaken in 1686, the former under the command of a Swiss-born convert to Islam). At the same time, the Venetians launched an expedition into Greece, which conquered the Peloponnese. During the 1687 Venetian attack on the city of Athens (conquered by the Ottomans), the Ottomans turned the ancient Parthenon into an ammunitions storehouse. A Venetian mortar hit the Parthenon, detonating the Ottoman gunpowder stored inside, partially destroying it.<sup>[31]</sup><sup>[32]</sup>

The war ended with the Treaty of Karlowitz in 1699. Prince Eugene of Savoy first distinguished himself in 1683 and remained the most important Austrian commander until 1718.<sup>[33]</sup><sup>[34]</sup>

The flooding of Europe with refugees has become a situation so divisive that it has been questioned whether this will mark “the downfall of the European Union.”<sup>[1]</sup> The refugees are not poor, docile victims. The majority of them are young men from Syria who have demonstrated their intent to storm Europe by force, which means they are actually better described as an unorganized army than as refugees or immigrants. Furthermore, they are coming primarily from Syria, the home of the ISIS headquarters.

Is it not strange? Does it not sound like a barbaric plan to take advantage of Western compassion (or even basic morality) just to turn around and execute their jihad?<sup>[2]</sup>

Of the many distortions manufactured by Russian President Vladimir Putin to justify Russia's assault on Ukraine, perhaps the most bizarre is his claim that the action was taken to "denazify" the country and its leadership. In making his case for entering his neighbor's territory with armored tanks and fighter jets, Putin has stated that the move was undertaken "to protect people" who have been "subjected to bullying and genocide," and that Russia "will strive for the demilitarization and denazification of Ukraine."

“Europe must become capable of defending its interests, with its allies by our side whenever they are willing, and alone if necessary,” Macron said.

Trump Assassination Attempt Changes Everything

The assassination attempt on the former US president at a rally yesterday upends an already volatile and unpredictable campaign, punctured by charged rhetoric and radicalized views. It also appears to irrevocably alter the political landscape in Trump's favor ahead of November elections.

For his legions of MAGA devotees, this makes him even more of a martyr to the cause, Trump as the ultimate survivor. One of his GOP acolytes called him unstoppable. His campaign quickly sent out a fundraising text message quoting Trump saying: "I will Never Surrender!"

At the Ohio rally, several attendees cited their belief that Trump has followed the Christian path of repenting and starting a new life.

And for many, Trump is a champion of Christianity and patriotism.

"I believe he believes in God and our military men and women, in our country, in America," said Tammy Houston of New Lexington, Ohio.

"I put my family first, and on a larger scale, it's America first," said Sherrie Cotterman of Sidney, Ohio. "And I would any day of the week, take a president that openly knows he needs the strength from God over his own."

In many ways, this is a familiar story.

About 8 in 10 white evangelical Christians supported Trump in 2020, according to AP VoteCast, and Pew Research Center's validated voter survey found that a similar share supported him in 2016.

"We will protect Christians in our schools and in our military and our government," Trump said. "We will protect God in our public square. ... I will protect the content that is pro-God."

Trump's pseudo-Christianity is logical outcome of 'America's God'

OPINION / GUEST VOICES

According to several investigative reports, the Trump campaign has been working with organizations intent on infusing overt Christian imagery and language into Trump's political platform, with hopes of exciting his prospective Christian base. In January, a viral video titled "God made Trump," which was aimed at Iowa caucus goers, was published by an independent group and quickly adopted by the Trump campaign.

Trump's pseudo-Christianity is logical outcome of 'America's God'

OPINION / GUEST VOICES

What Hauerwas calls "America's God" is shorthand for what I would simply call an idol. Belief in such a "god" is not belief in the God of Jesus Christ as informed by the Gospels and tradition, but the divinization of a self-serving projection of ideas, positions and campaign platforms.

It's striking that 17 years ago Hauerwas was able to say, "I cannot avoid the reality that American Christianity has been less than it should have been just to the extent that the church has failed to distinguish America's god from the God we worship as Christians."

Nearly two decades later, this statement is both more true and more disturbing. This is especially because while the idol of America's god has been around for some time, Trump now seems to be forming another kind of religion that worships such an idol, and the number of his faithful adherents is not insignificant.

Mr. Trump won an overwhelming majority of evangelical voters in his first two presidential races, but few — even among his rally crowds — explicitly compare him to Jesus.

Instead, the Trumpian flock is more likely to describe him as a modern version of Old Testament heroes like Cyrus or David, morally flawed figures handpicked by God to lead profound missions aimed at achieving overdue justice or resisting existential evil.

“They’ve crucified him worse than Jesus,” said Andriana Howard, 67, who works as a restaurant food runner in Conway, S.C.

The Church of Trump: How He’s Infusing Christianity Into His Movement

Ending many of his rallies with a churchlike ritual and casting his prosecutions as persecution, the former president is demanding — and receiving — new levels of devotion from Republicans.

Last year, Representative Marjorie Taylor Greene, a Georgia Republican and a close Trump ally, said both the former president and Jesus had been arrested by “radical, corrupt governments.” On Saturday, Mr. Trump shared an article on social media with the headline “The Crucifixion of Donald Trump.”

The meditative ritual might appear incongruent with the raucous epicenter of the nation’s conservative movement, but Mr. Trump’s political creed stands as one of the starkest examples of his effort to transform the Republican Party into a kind of Church of Trump. His insistence on absolute devotion and fealty can be seen at every level of the party, from Congress to the Republican National Committee to rank-and-file voters.

The Counterfeit Revival

Before the final visitation of God's judgments upon the earth there will be among the people of the Lord such a revival of primitive godliness as has not been witnessed since apostolic times. The Spirit and power of God will be poured out upon His children. At that time many will separate themselves from those churches in which the love of this world has supplanted love for God and His word. Many, both of ministers and people, will gladly accept those great truths which God has caused to be proclaimed at this time to prepare a people for the Lord's second coming.

(Maranatha 33:2)

Then if any man shall say unto you, Lo, here [is] Christ, or there; believe [it] not. For there shall arise false Christs, and false prophets, and shall shew great signs and wonders; insomuch that, if [it were] possible, they shall deceive the very elect. Behold, I have told you before.

(Matthew 24:23-25)

If there arise among you a prophet, or a dreamer of dreams, and giveth thee a sign or a wonder, And the sign or the wonder come to pass,
whereof he spake unto thee, saying,
Let us go after other gods, which thou hast not known, and let us serve them;
(Deuteronomy 13:1-2)

Thou shalt not hearken unto the words of that prophet, or that dreamer of dreams: for the LORD your God proveth you, to know whether ye love the LORD your God with all your heart and with all your soul.

(Deuteronomy 13:3)

And Samuel said to Saul, Why hast thou disquieted me, to bring me up? And Saul answered, I am sore distressed; for the Philistines make war against me, and God is departed from me, and answereth me no more, neither by prophets, nor by dreams: therefore I have called thee, that thou mayest make known unto me what I shall do.

(1 Samuel 28:15)

Moreover the LORD will also deliver Israel with thee into the hand of the Philistines: and to morrow [shalt] thou and thy sons [be] with me: the LORD also shall deliver the host of Israel into the hand of the Philistines.

(1 Samuel 28:19)

Exploring the Spiritual Meaning of Darkness in the Bible

↳ Article Summary

- Metaphoric Representation of Sin and Evil: Primarily, darkness in the Bible symbolizes sin, evil, and death. It is used to depict moral corruption, ungodliness, and the absence of God's light.
- Symbol of Ignorance and Divine Mystery: Besides negative connotations, darkness also serves to represent human ignorance, lack of understanding, and the enigma of divine aspects beyond our grasp.
- Depictive of Fear and Despair: Biblically, darkness often encapsulates feelings of fear, despair, and the anxiety associated with spiritual wilderness and isolation.
- Demonstration of God's Powerful Presence: Interestingly, darkness also sometimes signals the potent presence of God, as seen in various episodes like the darkness over the land during Christ's crucifixion.

And there came one of the seven angels which had the seven vials, and talked with me, saying unto me, Come hither; I will shew unto thee the judgment of the great whore that sitteth upon many waters:

...and IS AGAIN

And the beast that was, and is not, even he is the eighth, and is of the seven, and goeth into perdition.

(Revelation 17:11)

Since 1929, the Catholic Church has had the following popes:

1. Pius XI (1922–1939)* - He signed the Lateran Treaty with Italy in 1929, creating the independent state of Vatican City.
2. Pius XII (1939–1958)* - He led the Church during World War II and the early years of the Cold War.
3. *John XXIII (1958–1963)* - He is best known for initiating the Second Vatican Council (1962-1965).
4. Paul VI (1963–1978)* - He continued and concluded the Second Vatican Council and implemented its reforms.
5. John Paul I (1978)* - His papacy was one of the shortest in history, lasting only 33 days.
6. John Paul II (1978–2005)* - He was the first non-Italian pope in over 450 years and one of the most influential leaders of the 20th century.
7. Benedict XVI (2005–2013)* - He resigned in 2013, the first pope to do so in nearly 600 years.
8. Francis (2013–present)* - He is the first pope from the Americas and the first Jesuit pope.

| 111.  | Glory of the olive.   | Benedict XVI (2005–13)   | Joseph Ratzinger | Proponents of the prophecies generally try to draw a connection between Benedict and the Olivetans order to explain this motto: Benedict's choice of papal name is after Saint Benedict of Nursia , founder of the Benedictine Order , of which the Olivetans are one branch. <sup>[1][2]</sup> Other explanations make reference to him as being a pope dedicated to peace and reconciliations of which the olive branch is the symbol. <sup>[131]</sup> |  |

|   | In the final persecution of the Holy Roman Church, there will sit.  | In the Lignum Vitae , the line " In persecutione extrema S.R.E. sedebit. " forms a separate sentence and paragraph of its own. While often read as part of the "Peter the Roman" prophecy, other interpreters view it as a separate, incomplete sentence explicitly referring to additional popes between "glory of the olive" and "Peter the Roman". <sup>[1]</sup>  |                  |   |   |

The End. <sup>[17]</sup> | Many analyses of the prophecy note that it is open to the interpretation that additional popes would come between the "glory of the olive" and Peter the Roman. <sup>[5][18]</sup> Popular speculation by proponents of the prophecy attach this prediction to Benedict XVI's successor. <sup>[1]</sup> Since Francis' election as Pope, proponents in internet forums have been striving to link him to the prophecy. Theories include a vague connection with Francis of Assisi , whose father was named Pietro (Peter). <sup>[3]</sup> |                  |   |   |
