Last Warning to Flee!

THE PROCLAMATION OF THE DAY AND THE HOUR

After nearly two thousand years, the revelation of Jesus Christ is coming to its close and we are shortly before His return. With this video, the proverbial day and hour of the Second Coming is announced to the world, having finally been proclaimed by the Father! Learn how the interstellar object 3I/ATLAS was sent forth from the Father and how its color changes point directly to Jesus! Brother John shares the story of how years of diligent anticipation has culminated in this study that led to the marvelous understanding of the timing of the Lord's second advent, the treading of the winepress, and the rapture of His bride. May you be profoundly blessed and give glory to our Father, the Revealer of all secrets.

THE FORGOTTEN FEASTS

In a much-misunderstood verse, Paul teaches us that the feasts of the Lord serve as a prophecy of things to come. In this power-packed message, you will see how that prophecy was encoded in the feasts of the Lord as a spiritual analogy to the DNA of Jesus as only the Creator could do. But how is Jesus' DNA replicated in His people? The answer is found in The Forgotten Feasts. As things new and old are presented from the treasures of heavenly study, the connections between them all give glory and honor to the divine Author of these wonders. The Lord has paved the way of salvation by His infinite sacrifice. Will you receive His DNA and follow in His steps?

THE SIGN OF THE SON OF MAN!

In this powerful video, you will discover a biblical characteristic of 31/ATLAS that has tremendous ramifications. There are countless sources of false and misleading "news" regarding this object, but few consider its significance in biblical prophecy, but with what is presented here, you will see it within a bigger prophetic picture. The pieces of Revelation's puzzle are coming together and it is almost entirely assembled. Soon, our beloved Lord will appear on the cloud. Be watchful and keep oil in your lamps. Most of all, don't be deceived, but look up and see your Redeemer drawing near.

Babylon the Great sitting upon a dangerous
wild beast

How much she hath glorified herself, and lived deliciously, so much torment and sorrow give her: for she saith in her heart, I sit a queen, and am no widow, and shall see no sorrow.
(Revelation 18:7)

And after these things I saw another angel come down from heaven, having great power; and the earth was lightened with his glory. And he cried mightily with a strong voice, saying, Babylon the great is fallen, is fallen, and is become the habitation of devils, and the hold of every foul spirit, and a cage of every unclean and hateful bird. For all nations have drunk of the wine of the wrath of her fornication, and the kings of the earth have committed fornication with her, and the merchants of the earth are waxed rich through the abundance of her delicacies. And after these things I saw another angel come down from heaven, having great power; and the earth was lightened with his glory. And he cried mightily with a strong voice, saying, Babylon the great is fallen, is fallen, and is become the habitation of devils, and the hold of every foul spirit, and a cage of every unclean and hateful bird. For all nations have drunk of the wine of the wrath of her fornication, and the kings of the earth have committed fornication with her, and the merchants of the earth are waxed rich through the abundance of her delicacies. (Revelation 18:1-3)

In 64 A.D., a massive fire devastated large parts of the city of Rome. Many ancient sources, especially Tacitus, Suetonius, and Cassius Dio, report that Emperor Nero either ordered the fire himself or at least allowed it to happen deliberately. His goal was apparently to create space for a new, magnificent city built according to his own artistic and architectural ideals. At the center of this new Rome, he planned to erect his immense palace, the Domus Aurea ("Golden House") — a symbol of his power and divine pretensions.

But Nero's motives were not driven only by vanity and ambition. At that time, Rome was an overcrowded, chaotic, and often decaying city, filled with narrow alleys and wooden houses that constantly posed a fire hazard. Many districts were considered breeding grounds of filth, disease, and social "scum." Nero saw the fire as an opportunity to purge these slums and rebuild the city according to his vision — clean, orderly, and grand, with wide streets, stone buildings, and symmetrical layouts.

However, when the people turned against him and accused him of starting the fire, Nero shifted the blame to the Christians, claiming they were responsible. This marked the beginning of the first great persecution of Christians in Roman history. In truth, the fire became a tool of political and social control, allowing Nero both to realize his building ambitions and to strengthen his power — an attempt to replace the old chaos with his self-styled "divine order."

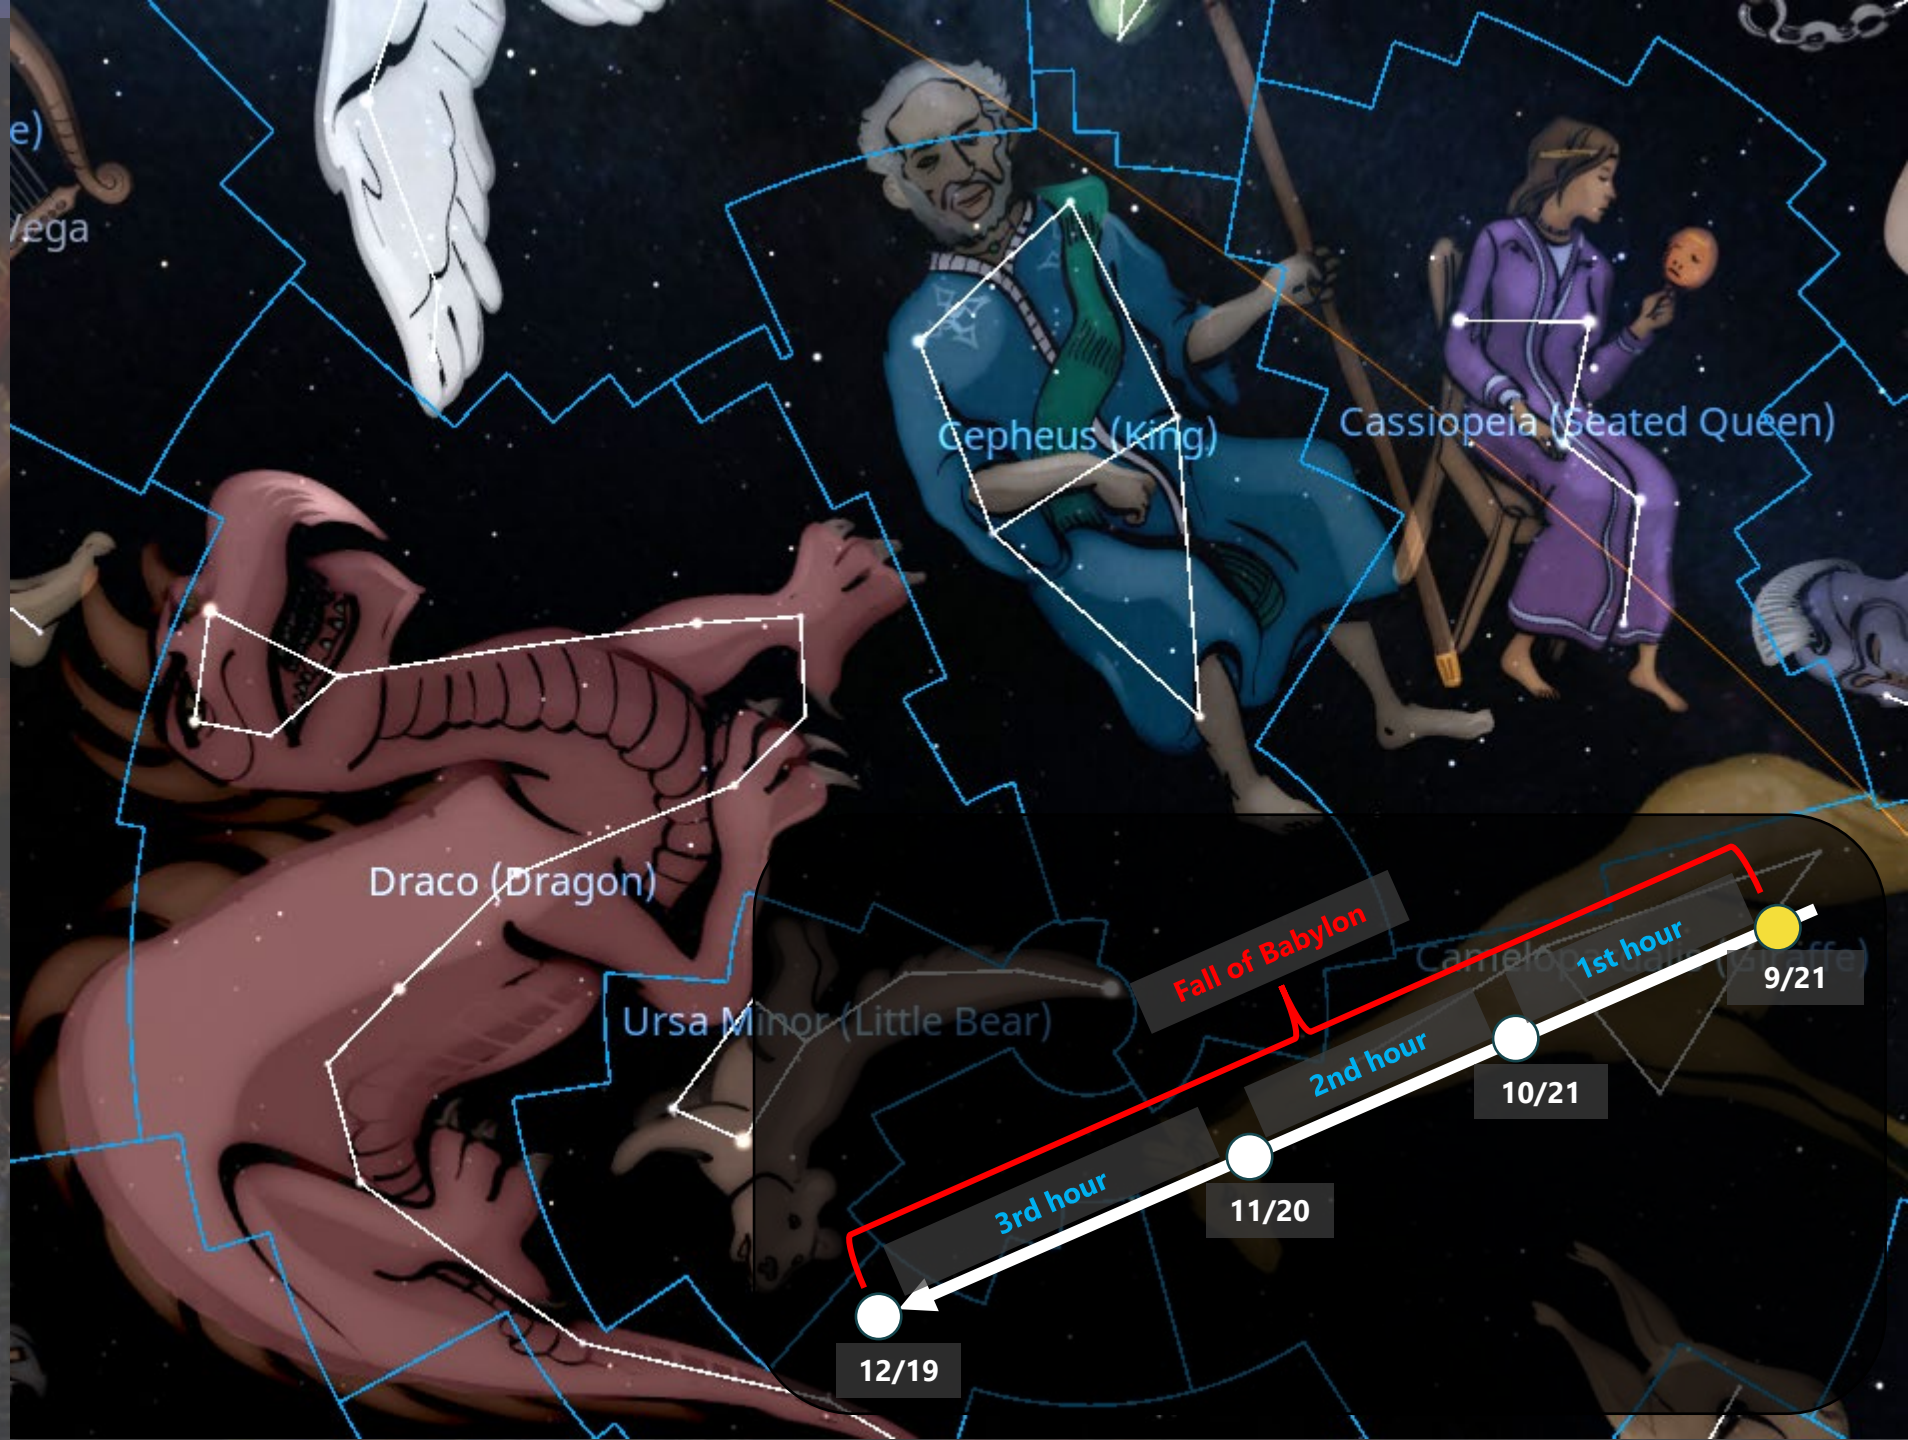

That is at Babylon.—Three places have claimed to be understood under this name: (1) A little place called Babylon in Egypt, which has nothing to plead for itself except the unlikelihood of St. Peter ever being at the Oriental Babylon, coupled with the difficulty of supposing that the name is used quite figuratively. Perhaps, also, we should mention the traditional connection of St. Mark with Egypt. No one now, however, maintains this view. (2) The literal Babylon in the East. This has for itself the simple way in which St. Peter uses the word without any circumlocution. But it has 'nothing else for it, to set against all the overwhelming arguments in favour of the third claimant; besides which we learn from Josephus of a great expulsion of Jews from the Oriental Babylon a few years before this date: these Jews might of course, however, have gathered there again, as they did at Rome, in spite of frequent expulsions. (3) It may be called the established interpretation that the place meant is Rome. We never hear of St. Peter being in the East, and the thing in itself is improbable, whereas nothing but Protestant prejudice can stand against the historical evidence that St. Peter sojourned and died at Rome. Whatever theological consequences may flow from it, it is as certain that St. Peter was at Rome as that St. John was at Ephesus. Everything in the Letter also points to such a state of things as was to be found at Rome about the date when we believe the Letter to have been written. It is objected that St. Peter would not gravely speak of Rome under a fanciful name when dating a letter; but the symbolism in the name is quite in keeping with the context. St. Peter has just personified the church of the place from which he writes, which seems quite as unprosaic a use of language as to call Rome "Babylon." And it seems pretty clear that the name was quite intelligible to Jewish readers, for whom it was intended. The Apocalypse (Revelation 17:18) is not the only place where Rome is found spoken of under this title. One of the first of living Hebraists (who will not allow his name to be mentioned) told the present writer that no Hebrew of St. Peter's day would have had need to think twice what city was meant when "Babylon" was mentioned. And on the mention of the name, all the prophecies of the vengeance to be taken on the city which had desolated the Holy Land would rush with consolation into the mind of the readers, and they would feel that St. Peter, though supporting St. Paul, was still in full sympathy with themselves. Finally, as M. Renan suggests, there were reasons of prudence for not speaking too plainly about the presence of a large Christian society in Rome. The police were still more vigilant now than when St. Paul wrote in guarded language about the Roman empire to the Thessalonians. (See Excursus on the Man of Sin, after 2 Thess.) It might provoke hostilities if the Epistle fell into the hands of a delator, with names and places too clearly given.

By Silvanus, a faithful brother unto you, as I suppose, I have written briefly, exhorting, and testifying that this is the true grace of God wherein ye stand. The church that is at Babylon, elected together with you, saluteth you; and so doth Marcus my son. Greet ye one another with a kiss of charity. Peace be with you all that are in Christ Jesus. Amen. (1 Peter 5:12-14)

How much she hath glorified herself, and lived deliciously, so much torment and sorrow give her: for she saith in her heart, I sit a queen, and am no widow, and shall see no sorrow. (Revelation 18:7)

Therefore, shall her plagues come in one day, death, and mourning, and famine; and she shall be utterly burned with fire: for strong is the Lord God who judgeth her. (Revelation 18:8)

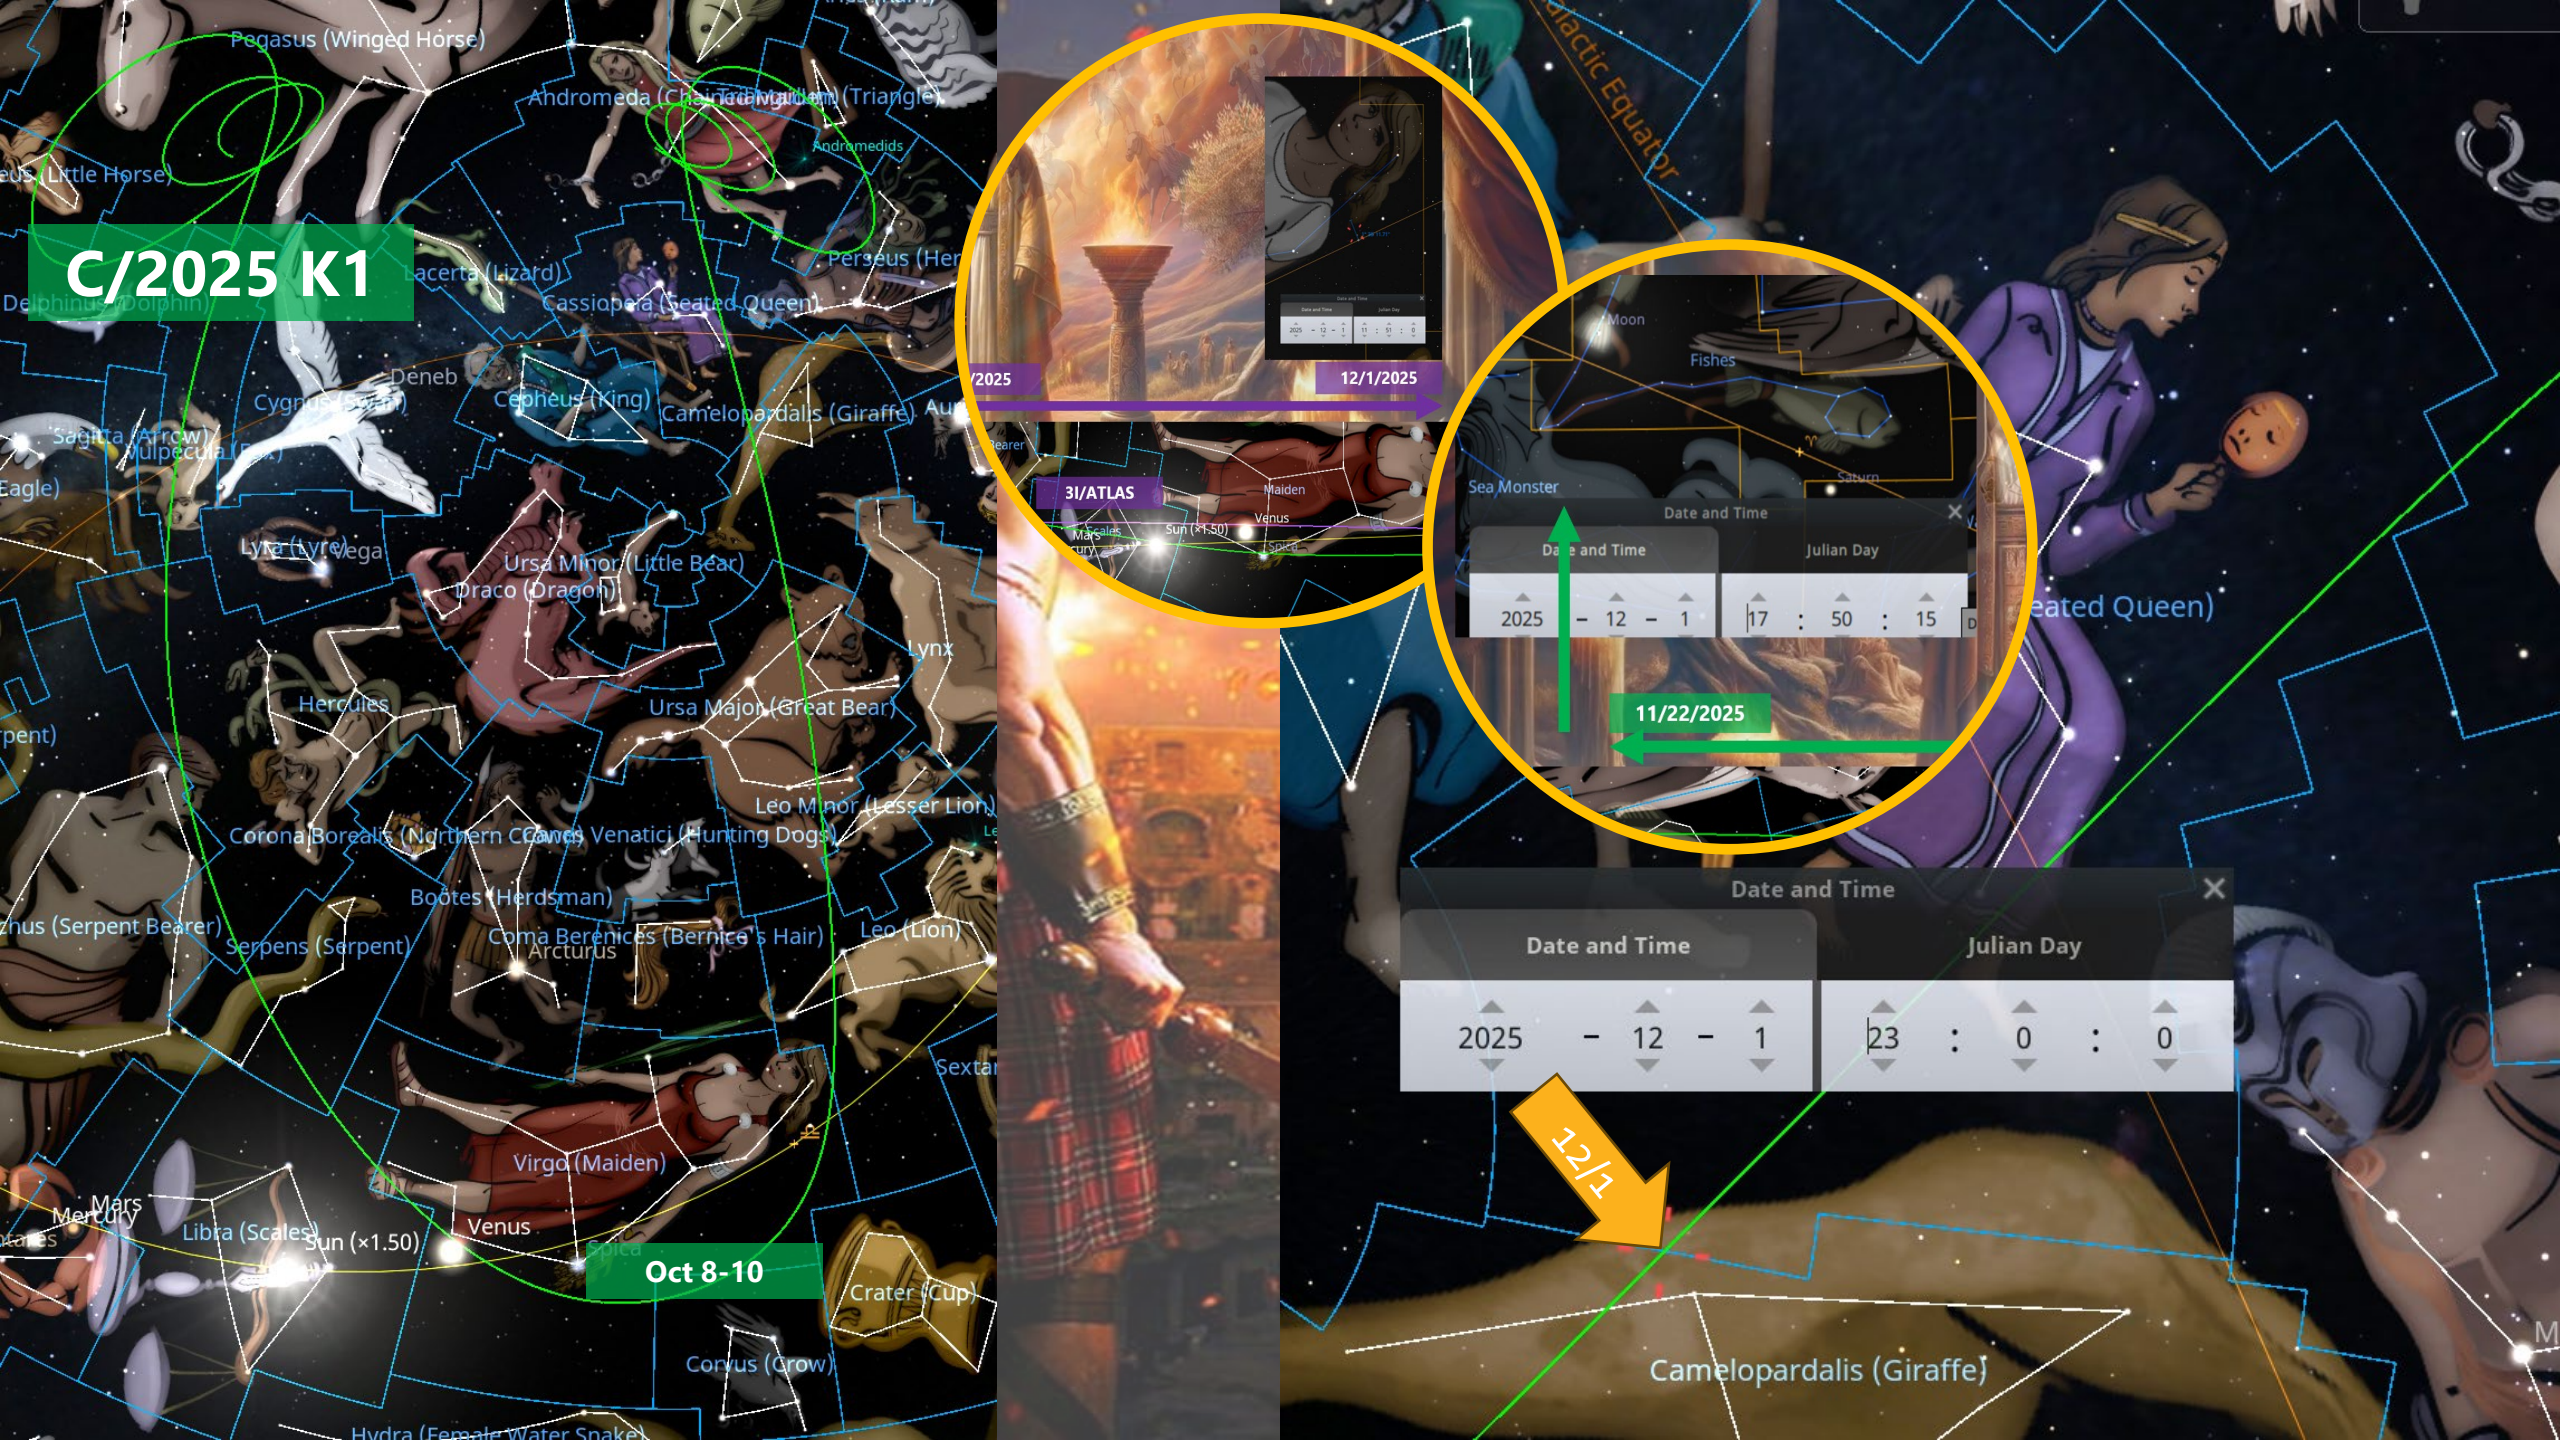

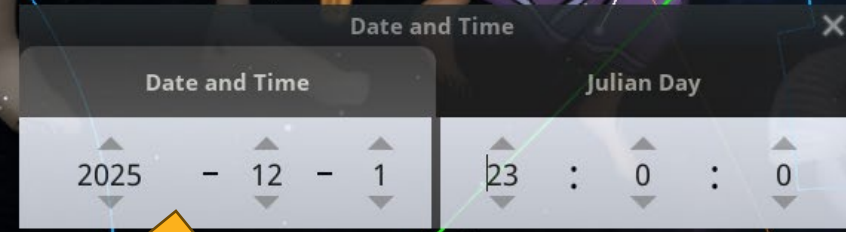

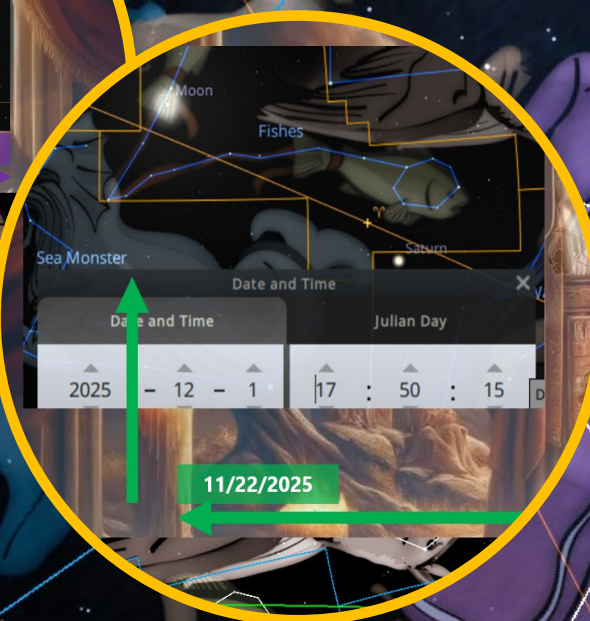

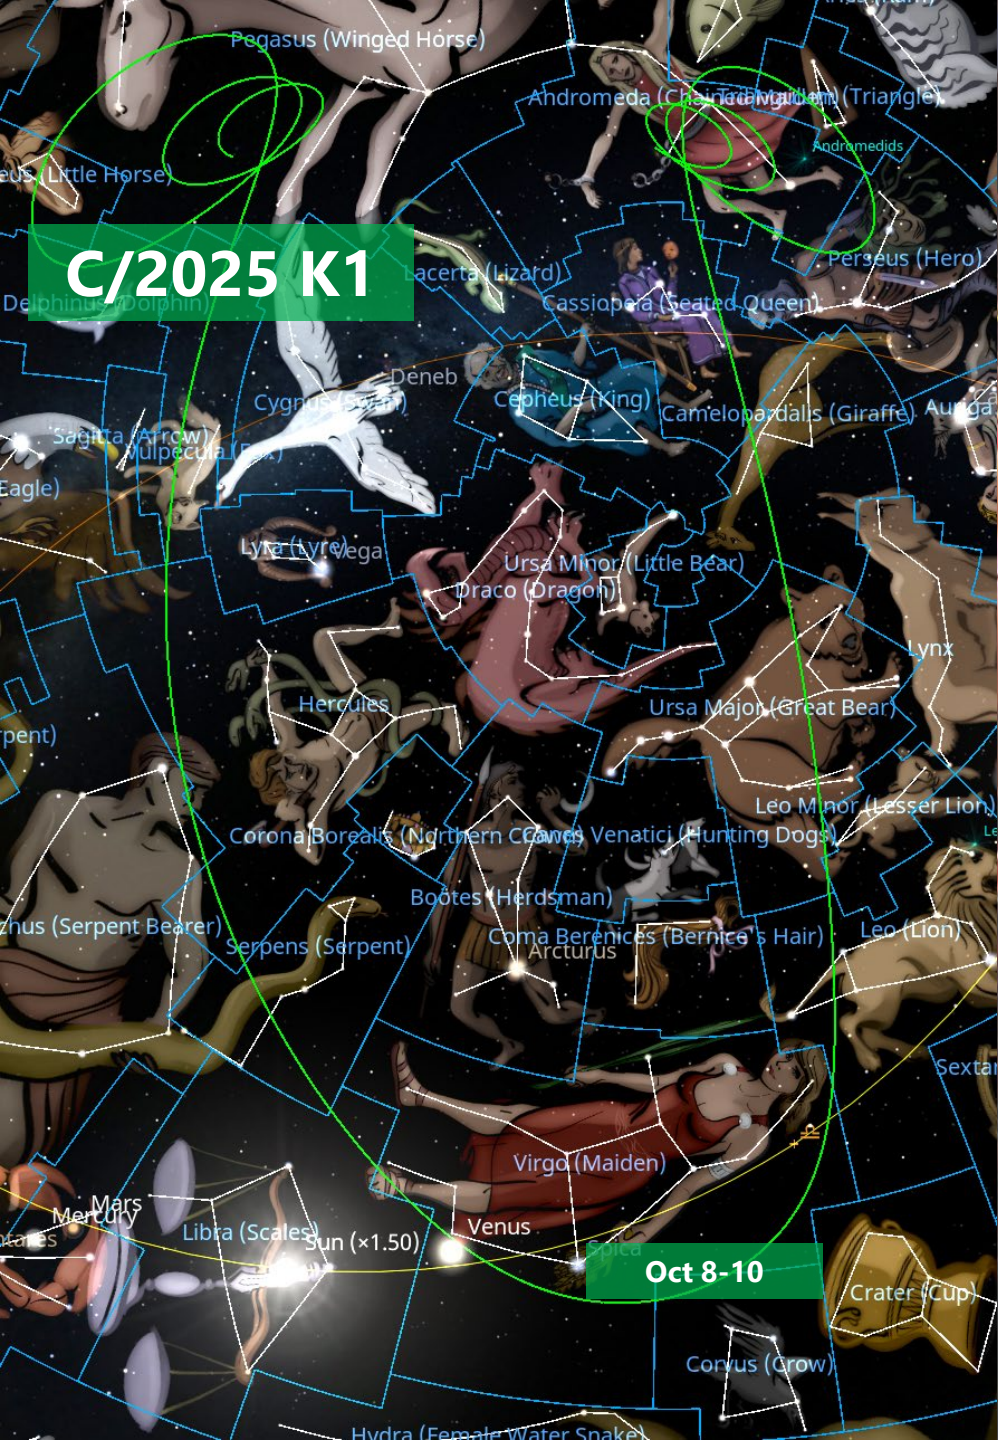

How art thou fallen from heaven, O Lucifer, son of the morning! how art thou cut down to the ground, which didst weaken the nations! For thou hast said in thine heart, I will ascend into heaven, I will exalt my throne above the stars of God: I will sit also upon the mount of the congregation, in the sides of the north: I will ascend above the heights of the clouds; I will be like the most High. Yet thou shalt be brought down to hell, to the sides of the pit. (Isaiah 14:12-15)

And when he hath made an end of reconciling the holy place, and the tabernacle of the congregation, and the altar, he shall bring the live goat: And Aaron shall lay both his hands upon the head of the live goat, and confess over him all the iniquities of the children of Israel, and all their transgressions in all their sins, putting them upon the head of the goat, and shall send him away by the hand of a fit man into the wilderness: And the goat shall bear upon him all their iniquities unto a land not inhabited: and he shall let go the goat in the wilderness. THE MYSTERY OF THE 1600 FURLONGS

As Jesus' return draws near, humanity must make a final decision to either accept His grace as demonstrated on the cross, or reject it. In this video, you will witness the most powerful confirmation of the heavenly testimony of His return. As the midnight cry sounds and the harvest is gathered in, may Jesus and His heavenly wonders be lifted up! You will discover the mystery of the depth of the blood that reaches the horse bridles when the winepress is trodden outside the city of God. Those who embrace His cross will be amazed at the rich, spiritual treasure that the Lord packed into the last verse of the harvest in Revelation 14, which can only be unlocked by the heavens! It was revealed by the living Spirit of Prophecy directing us in the study of God's word.

THE HARVEST AT THE END OF TIME

This video uncovers the solemn harvest imagery of Scripture—the wheat and the tares, the grapes destined for the winepress—in the urgent context of the first hour of Babylon's fall, which began with the Charlie Kirk memorial revival. As we watch escalating world events—shootings, false revivals, threats of war—we are reminded that not every "awakening" is true. This is a sober call to discern the time, test every movement against God's Word, and respond to heaven's invitation to join the authentic spiritual revival that lifts our eyes upward to Christ before the coming judgment. May God's people awaken and share the message of hope during this perilous time.
